

Supervisor Letourneau Welcomes Possible Relocation of Paul VI High School to South Riding

LEESBURG-- Loudoun County Supervisor Matt Letourneau (R-Dulles) issued the following statement regarding today's announcement that the Catholic Diocese of Arlington is studying the feasibility of moving Paul VI High School from Fairfax to South Riding by 2020:

"I welcome news that Paul VI High School may relocate to South Riding in the coming years. As a product of a Catholic high school myself, I am strong believer in Catholic education. Paul VI would provide Loudoun residents with a high quality educational opportunity and would be a valuable addition to our community. The construction of Paul VI could also bring some relief to Loudoun's high schools, which face continued strains due to a growing student population. I look forward to working with the Catholic Diocese of Arlington as they begin this process."

The Catholic Diocese owns an appropriately sized parcel at the intersection of Riding Center Drive and Braddock Road in South Riding.
